>> 52,000 pledges for WSH 2015 breaks Singapore Book of Records!

Since the launch of the National Workplace Safety & Health (WSH) Campaign on 20 April, the WSH Advisory Committee has successfully garnered more than 52,000 pledges of commitment towards workplace safety and health. The pledges came from employers, WSH professionals, engineers, office employees, supervisors and workers. This is a new national record!

The pledge drive was a key feature of this year’s campaign which centred on the 10-year strategic roadmap for WSH in Singapore. In line with the campaign’s theme “safety & health involves everyone @ work” or “shine@work”, the pledge drive reminds every person of his/her role in ensuring safety and health @ work.

After a month of over 50 events, the campaign’s closing ceremony took place today at the Arts House @ Old Parliament Building, officiated by Mr. Hawazi Daipi, Senior Parliamentary Secretary for Manpower. In his address, Mr. Hawazi announced a new award to recognise the contributions by outstanding WSH Officers.
